Professional development courses for fundraisers

Fundraisers, whether full or part-time professionals, or volunteers who raise money for charitable or philanthropic purposes, face significant challenges at a time when the money available for charitable and philanthropic purposes remains static. At the same time an increasing number of organisations are competing for the funding available in an increasingly competitive market.

In order to ensure that your organisation has the best chance of obtaining the resources it needs to meet its requirements, it makes sense to use the good offices of the Institute of Fundraising, and its extensive network of Licensed Training Providers to train fundraisers in the most modern, effective and legal manner.

The Institute of Fundraising Professional Development Programme enables all fundraisers, of whatever level and background, to access excellence in all aspects of fundraising activity.
